EDUCATION · 2027

Every artist leaves holding bitcoin. Then we train the next teacher.

Our eight-session curriculum for artists is already free on our website. In 2027 we turn it into a program that grows beyond one teacher: a facilitator guide, a recorded course, live webinars, classrooms in two cities, and four new facilitators trained to teach it in their own communities.

ORGANIZATION Bitcoin for the Arts, Inc. · EIN 41-2642260 · bitcoinforthearts.org
CONTACT Dion Wilson, Executive Director · dionwilson@bitcoinforthearts.org
REQUEST $10,560 for January 1 to December 31, 2027. Teachers and facilitators paid in bitcoin.

SESSIONS	LIVE AND IN PERSON	NEW FACILITATORS	REQUEST
8	6	4	$10,560
Recorded, free to reuse	4 webinars, 2 classrooms	Trained and paid to teach	Program year 2027

THE CURRICULUM

What Is Money? · Bitcoin for Artists: Unlocking New Creative Freedom · Bitcoin in Practice for Artists · Protecting Your Bitcoin: Security and Self-Custody · Sound Money, Better Art · Bitcoin and the Creator Economy, in three sessions: the incentive, building your audience, and the tools, platforms, and payments that let an artist get paid directly. The last session teaches the value-for-value tools we use for our own releases, such as Fanfares and Nostr.

Education is practical: self-custody, receiving, and sending. No token collections. The curriculum stays free to reuse.

WHO TEACHES IT

Dion Wilson, lead instructor. Founder and Executive Director of Bitcoin for the Arts. Sixteen years as a principal dancer, and a teacher who has mentored more than 10,000 students at schools and conservatories across the United States and abroad.

Monika Bravo, lead facilitator partner. Multidisciplinary artist (Studio of Endless Ideas). She is building the facilitator model from our existing webinars and will co-teach the program.

ALREADY IN PUBLIC

The full eight-session curriculum is on bitcoinforthearts.org, with a live webinar signup. Sixteen artist stories are on YouTube and six are in the podcast feed. In 2026 we funded Ainsley Costello, Aksana Zasinets, and Christopher Arcella.

HOW THE MONEY IS USED

Line	What it pays for	Amount
Facilitator guide	The eight sessions rebuilt as a teaching kit: session plans and timings, slides, handouts, wallet walkthroughs, and a checklist any facilitator can follow. Written with our lead facilitator partner. Published free. Curriculum design and writing fee, paid in bitcoin	$2,000
Recorded course	All eight sessions recorded, edited, captioned, and published free on our website and YouTube. 8 sessions at $200 each	$1,600
Live webinars	Four live online sessions, one each quarter, with time for questions and a live wallet setup. 4 sessions at $300: teacher fee and platform	$1,200
Classroom, New York	An in-person classroom presentation for artists in New York. Room, printed materials, and two teachers	$1,300
Classroom, second city	An in-person classroom in our lead facilitator's city. Room, printed materials, two teachers, and travel for one	$1,700
First sats	Every in-person attendee receives a small amount of bitcoin into a wallet they set up in class, so they leave having received bitcoin, not just heard about it. About 60 attendees at $10 each	$600
Facilitator cohort	Four artists trained with the guide, each paid to teach their first session in their own community. 4 facilitators at $300 each, paid in bitcoin	$1,200
Administration	10% for scheduling, bookkeeping, and reporting	$960
Request	January 1 to December 31, 2027	$10,560

THE YEAR

Q1
Facilitator guide written. Eight sessions recorded and published. First live webinar.

Q2
New York classroom. Second live webinar. Facilitator applications open.

Q3
Second-city classroom. Third live webinar. Four facilitators trained.

Q4
Each facilitator teaches a first session. Fourth live webinar. Year report.

DONE MEANS

The facilitator guide and all eight recordings are public and free. Four webinar dates and two classroom dates, each with a headcount. A count of attendees who received their first bitcoin. Four facilitators, named, with the date and place of each first session.

WHAT WE REPORT

Each date and its attendance, first-sats count, recordings published, facilitators trained and where they taught, and a short financial note each quarter. If a line is not finished, we say so.

Dion Wilson, Executive Director · dionwilson@bitcoinforthearts.org · hello@bitcoinforthearts.org