OUR MISSION

Bitcoin For The Arts funds independent creators across visual arts, theater, music, dance, writing, film, and storytelling — through quarterly Bitcoin micro-grants, education, and live programming. We are building a parallel arts-funding system that doesn't depend on government grants, corporate sponsors with strings, or institutional donors with conditions. Sound money for sovereign creators.

HOW EVERY DOLLAR MOVES

55%	Direct artist grants Quarterly Bitcoin micro-grants to working artists nationwide
30%	Programs Workshops, residencies, productions, our Art + Zap Weekend flagship event
10%	Operations Software, banking, admin
5%	HODL Vault Permanent Bitcoin endowment, designed to grow in purchasing power across decades

100% on-chain. 100% open-source. Public governance, board minutes, and financial allocation: bitcoinforthearts.org/transparency

WHERE WE ARE TODAY (Q2 2026)

- First Q3 micro-grant cycle launches summer 2026 — $500–$2,000 BTC grants paid directly to artists' Lightning addresses, no application fee
- HODL Vault first endowment position currently being established, with on-chain transparency reporting to follow
- Art + Zap Weekend — September 2026 at Pubkey DC, 21 featured artists, 2-day live broadcast, Monday-night Broadway-headlined finale
- Sovereign Circle active across 5 tiers ($5/mo to $101/mo) — first annual member joined April 2026
- Granting & funding wallet going public on-chain — every donation in, every grant out, verifiable forever
- Editorial publication active on Substack — newsjacking the arts-funding crisis, telling the BFTA mission story week-over-week

THREE ARTISTS IN THE BFTA COMMUNITY

These artists have shared their work and their Bitcoin journey through BFTA. They represent who BFTA exists to support.

Benjamin Ella
DANCE · LONDON

17 seasons as Soloist of The Royal Ballet — with roles created for him by Wayne McGregor,

Kenneth Burris
VISUAL ART · NYC

30+ years of studio mastery. His Post-Globalist Landscape series — industrial cooling towers

Man Like Kweks
MUSIC · TANZANIA

Tanzania's Bitcoin frontier sound. Musician, community educator, fusing Afrobeat rhythms

Crystal Pite, and Hofesh Shechter. Discovered Bitcoin while serving as a dancer's union deputy. "Proverbs 11:1 — The Lord detests dishonest weights and scales. That's what money printing is."

looming amid misty wildernesses — provokes the question: what endures when empires of code crumble? A defiant sentinel of permanence in an age of digital ephemera.

with Lightning-fast zaps — sonic manifestos that make the case for Bitcoin as the soundtrack of African economic sovereignty. Latest: Tokyo Citadel Remix with reelrichard.

WHY BITCOIN

Federal arts funding is collapsing. The NEA has been targeted for elimination in two consecutive federal budgets. State arts appropriations are projected to drop 7.7% nationally for FY2026. Institutional arts funding can no longer be relied on.

Bitcoin and the Lightning Network make a non-state-dependent arts funding model possible for the first time:

- Instant, global, peer-to-peer payments with no platform fees, no permission, no third party between donor and artist
- Fixed supply (21 million) — endowments denominated in Bitcoin do not lose purchasing power across decades the way fiat endowments do
- On-chain transparency — every donation in, every grant out, verifiable by anyone, forever

We are not waiting for institutions to fix themselves. We are building the alternative.
