Bitcoin for the Arts is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit empowering artists with Bitcoin micro-grants, education, and sovereign funding tools. We are the first nonprofit paying artists exclusively in Bitcoin.

Our work spans original podcast journalism, weekly editorial publishing, an 8-part educational webinar series for artists, micro-grant deployment, a public Artist Directory, and on-the-ground cultural programming at major Bitcoin conferences. We are a startup nonprofit operating with limited resources, building the patronage model that the arts and the Bitcoin movement both need.

The Midwest Bitcoin Summit returns to the Greater Columbus Convention Center on September 23 and 24, 2026, with reciprocal access bringing cross-event audience to an estimated 7,000+ attendees. BFTA has secured a dedicated 30'-wide footprint on the Expo Hall floor and access to the Secondary Stage for programmed lunch-hour performances on both days. We call this footprint Bitcoin Arts Park.

Inside the footprint: a curated film cinema, a Living Room brand and Lightning wallet demo zone, a Gallery wall with peer-to-peer Lightning silent auction, and a merchandise and donation counter. On the Secondary Stage, two days of programmed live performances by Ainsley Costello and other working artists paid in Bitcoin. And, anchoring the cinema, a live presentation and audience Q&A of Dirty Coin, the most-screened Bitcoin documentary in the world, by director Alana Mediavilla. The Presenting Tier underwrites the full vision and the documentation that turns this weekend into a body of evergreen content.

IF THE FULL $60,000 IS NOT RAISED

BFTA will scale the build to match committed funding using this priority order:

- If $15,000 or more is committed: Alana Mediavilla's $5,000 director appearance stipend is preserved and her live Dirty Coin presentation goes forward. Remaining committed funds support the BFTA Bitcoin Arts Park operational backbone, scaled to fit.
- If less than $15,000 is committed: all committed funds support the operational backbone. Dirty Coin is still presented at the Summit through a decentralized rental of the film, without director travel.

Donors receive a full reconciliation against actuals within 30 days of the Summit.
